EMEAGWALI-I-I-I-I!

How are you dear brother? Your name and work were given to me almost a year ago (February 2005) with the intentions of including your name on a list of Inventors for African American History Month and to introduce your name and profound work to the public libraries' patrons and community-at-large whom may not have heard of you. The paper got misplaced until this week. Keeping a promised made back then, before losing the document with your website on it, I visited your site the other day. WOW!

Through GOD's Grace and mercy, may you continue to walk and do good, great things for the inhabitants of this great planet. You also make one proud to be of African descent in spite of the negative images and beliefs that have historically affected the epic memory of those of us born out in the Diaspora. The children with whom I meet, greet and perform for (and with) as a professional storyteller WILL KNOW the name, reason, and favorite music of EMEAGWALI for sure this time when I present "A-B-C-D-E-F-G, Inventive African Minds Making History."

Atleast we can show the world that goodthings can come out of Nigeria, and there are more that are yet budding so they should just be on the look out for more of your likes in nigeria... Sir, i believe that all you need to do to us the younger generation is to constantly give useful advices and lead rightly and then we'll follow diligently and explore other areas that are yet untapped then, we see who will set limits for us.... Kudos to you sir, and keep up the good work.

Phillip,
you are a beacon of light in a dark continent.

I have always been wondering why is it that black man can run faster, punch harder, jump higher but can not write better.

Your story loudly emphasizes the ingenuity of the black man despite the mis-education of the negros.

Your story also brings to mind the scientific and technological achievements of Biafrans during the Nigerian civil war.

Your thunderous but yet unheard inventions breaks
the jinx of black man's inferiority.

You are a great gift not only to the Ibos in particular but to Nigeria and Africa in general.

Yours have shaded light to the darkest part of every black man.

Thanks for your courage.

May God be with us.

You are an inspiration not only in the field of science, but also in the way you have made a connection between our history as Africans (black people) and how it has affected us today and will affect the future. People need to understand how much blacks have done. The sad thing here is that we keep waiting for other races to publish and spread info on how great blacks are. How can we expect them to do so? We are the ones that have to do this. Why can't we handle our own business? Forget them giving us credit, we should give ourselves credit. We are humans just like everyone else on this planet. Who or what are we waiting for? If the young kids do not know who or what is what, then the enlightened adults need to take it upon themselves to shed light on the facts. If there are not enough computers in Africa to get this info out, then do it the old fashioned way with handed-out print info. Full color post cards/flyers can be shipped and handed out in schools stating the facts in ways that these kids will connect with. Items like this do not cost that much these days. If the governments will not do this, then the private sector should. Let us start a movement todayPropaganda to empower and boost the self esteems of our youth. All Africans are great, we really are. Most of all we do not need any approval from other races. Let us love ourselves first.

I visited you websites and it was a glorious experience ; it was packed with literary Contents and Brilliant ideas of academic and intellectual benefits, thus armed with the courage and other spiritual weapons gained from your site, which drives you towards the zenith your profession. I hereby vote you in my world as My Great Hero, My Great Role Model, and My Archetype of Excellence.

I admire your spirit of enterprise and of endeavour.You have shed lustre on Biafran - our country and our race. You have proved by example that tenacity of purpose is the key to unlock the barred gates of mystery and of fate. You have taught me by your efforts that the word "impossibility" must be erased from my mind, and that with requisite determination, assiduity, self confidence and industry, the dizzy heights of academic fame can no longer be reserved for a given few.

On your Speeches especially the one Titled: " How Do We Reverse the Brain drain?" and "Black History:Lost, Stolen or Strayed" if i did not learn any thing, I learnt to intensify in my struggle to receive a better education, and it also dawn on me that Education is the sore need of our country(Nigeria) and the education that she is needs is in my own words, "not Europeanising, but rather Euro- Africianising the Africans" And this is my aim in whatever activity i enagage myself.

Dear Professor Emeagwali, though I have been constantly perusing your site, this is the first time I have posted in quite a long time. I have finished my Masters and starting a PhD. Like you, I had to leave Nigeria, specifically U.N.N. due to strike and as a result, will finish my PhD in my early thirties rather than earlier.

However, like I had posted a while back, every time I have hit a wall, I come back here to get inspiration to continue. Your words about geniuses is one that I definitely agree with and have observed. This has given me an optimistic outlook in that nothing fashioned by other human beings is impossible to learn. I have also learned that only true geniuses can really make anyone understand esoteric knowledge in basic terms as you have shown. I still mourn the true and just Biafrans that died for the struggle and those that are still suffering in Nigeria. I am trying to start a small unit of Nigerian experts that will help train the eager and bright young minds in Nigeria. After several years of information gathering, I believe that the best way to save the country and the continent is through immediate application of technical knowledge backed by a sound theory that produces visual results. I was wondering if you have ever initiated any such exercise and if so, what practical advice you can offer.

Dear Sir,

Your site has become a bible of some sort to some of us. It inspires us in our quest to re-discover old truths. One of which is the truth about the place of the Blackman in science & technology. And as an Igbo man, the history and & the journey so far for us as Igbos.

Sir, I was honored to receive a phone call from you in 2005, & the only exhilarating experience I can compare the encounter of that day to, is the way I felt in Jan 2001 when I was granted a students visa to the United States.

Knowing fully well that the nature of your work and the towering responsibilities only allows you enough time to return only 2 to 3 calls per week, and these calls are chosen randomly.

Sir, it's an honor to be associated to you, either remotely or anyhow.

I feel Inspired, Informed & Involved with your works and the light that you and other great African over-achievers have lit in our hearts & minds.

Shine on sir, shine on and make the mountains a plain for us the up and coming. Shine on, sir, and make the valleys a level ground for those yet un-born. Shine on Sir, and give a human face to the Blackman, a face filled with the light & the force of knowledge and wisdom. Such that whenever these people of a different skin color, that believe that nothing good can come out of Black-Africa, as they stare into your face, the rays of light & the heat of knowledge coming from you, will melt away their doubtful minds.

Shine on sir, and let the heat from your mind heat up our on minds as well, that we being activated by this light will jointly cause a glorious light to reside in Black Africa.

I look forward with bubbling interest, to yet another direct encounter with you.

I remain respectfully yours

Ike Chidolue

Like a tree that falls in the forest and there is no one to here its mighty thunder, many lights like you are dimmed by extraordinary circumstances that frustrates Africa and African. May the circumstances that lead to you beacon shining brightly despite pretence by some not to see your light (cos is the wrong colour) be a guide and an inspiration to human beings around the world.

Can anything good come out of Africa?When you watch CNN,Africa is being portrayed as the land infected with wars,diseases,hunger,strife,corruption,with our cities being given a ghetto status.What a deceit from them who came here to rape our women,exploited our resources and planted a seed of discord among us.They are still on it even now.Only time and God will execute judgement on them.We will always prove to them that we are not descendants of apes.The first shall be the last and the last shall be the first,i believe stongly on this though it might not happen in my generation.So big Bros keep embarrassing them with your astonishing discoveries.Whether they like your colour or not they must bow to you to tap from your wealth of experience.But remember that that which you are doing over here can equally be done here.Aku rue ulo.....

I am a law student at the Howard University School of Law. I along with a couple of my friends are putting together a nonprofit event in the NY/NJ area during the weekend of June 30-July 2nd, called the Metro College Reunion. I would like to invite you and everyone to this event as a guest, and if possible as one of the individuals to sit in on our panel.

This event is not like your regular reunion. There are two underlying purposes; (1) to create a venue where people will meet with other young professionals to network, and (2) to create a venue where people who attended school in Nigeria will meet up with fellow alums with the sole purpose of exploring ways to help the education system in Nigeria. Which school you donate to, what to do with the money and how to organize for the donations is entirely up to the attendees.

Our role in this is merely to provide a venue to make it happen. We have put together quite a most enjoyable and entertaining weekend because we believe that we might as well get started on being "the leaders of tomorrow".

I hope you can attend this event because at the forefront of creating a better and progressive Nigeria, we need people of Nigerian ancestry such as yourself who are making a difference today.

If you are interested in attending this event or in helping us with the forum, please feel free to e-mail us at reunion@gssso.net or visit our site at <http://gssso.net/reunion2006..>

For more information on this event and the many activities which include a forum/panel discussion on "Networking strategies; What works and What doesn't", picnic and a cruise; please go to <http://gssso.net/reunion2006>.

Thank you for your time!!!

I have learned a great deal in this website. Your honesty, hard work, and discipline has earned you a million dollar ticket, fame, and most importantly you have contributed or invented a mathematics formula that has revolutionized the computer industry and other field. It is something that will be known in a life time. Great work, you have proved wrong the ignorant, racist white supremacy in the west. I was so socked to know that Euclid the great mathematician was a black African. This white supremacy has created a dysfunctional historical scholarship. Writing books for the past five hundred years glorifying themselves at the expense of others especially black Africans. I am a Kenyan 100% African. I would prefer that African people to start teaching African children African history especially about the great kemetic people and possibly refer to themselves as the children of the great kemetic people because we are truly the kemetic people. I believe that we are the descendant of the great kemetic people. I would truly like you to take your expertise and leapfrog Africa to the modern age. My dream is to see Africa as a united states of Africa. It's so sad that we are not controlling our own resources. Our continent is the wealthiest in natural resources yet we are the poorest. Truly you have done an amazing job and am hoping you have many more inventions in the future good luck to you and your family, by the way I hope Denzel Washington will make a movie about you thanks a lot bye.

Fight the good fight, brother, and keep up the excellent work. It's so refreshing to discover a modern African scientific genius who is also Afrocentric. How come I didn't hear about you in 1989, when I was still an electrical engineering student? How come you weren't made Time mag's man of the year?

It has been my pleasure to know that such an inspiring individual was created by Olodumare. You have brought understanding to math to our youth when some believed they had no hope of accomplishing such tasks in this life time.

I'm proud of you as a Nigerian. Just knowing about your contributions to science is inspiring! Greater heights to Africans. I wonder how many Africans are making landmark achievements quietly somewhere? What we need to figure out is how to use our intellect to improve the standards of living and quality of life back home - no equation seems to be working there! Cheers.

Dr. Philip Emeagwli is the man i admire the most. i believe he is the moses of Africans. he did not only made us proud, but he left a laggacy warthy of emulation by all youth who want to succed in life. He also show them that Africans are superior only that Bad govvernmene is reverging us.

though he might have lost hope in Nigeria but i want to tell him that he is owing many Nigerian the dept of comming home and show us the way up staies. i will like to include him in my new book as one of those set aside to be emulated.

This is simply amazing! On a scale of 10 i think you deserve 10pts! I am so proud of you. I am a Radiology major at a college here in dallas. This is my first visit to your website, and i think you definitely need more publicity. Your speech was very moving and i think one way to encourage this younsters is to create scholarship opportunities and offer them jobs back home like you mentioned. There are thousands of great minds out there who don't even have the chance to get into schools in Nigeria because of the fierce competition.It is no longer a case of who is intelligent like it was in my father's days but it is now who you know and how much money you have, this very sad. I was a victim three times but now im a straight a student at my collegeiin Texas !

Guy

You more publicity than you think. I will suggest you arrange a programme with DSTV in South Africa for a documentary on you life achievements so far. This will go a long way in encouraging african youths to embrace education more seriously. This I assure you will speak louder than all the write ups on you web site. Africa is seriously lagging behind in ICT and a documentary about you transmitted to the world DSTV subscribers in Africa is the magic touch and the greatest thing you can do to boost education in Africa to encourage your brothers.

You seriously need maximum publicity. You suffered racism due to the fact the white controlled media outfits used the communication power on you even after you had won all the prizes. But it's still not late. Hope you are still visiting Nigeria in 2007 as you promised. You are the greatest and don't forget your root - IBO LAND. We have been empowered to bring development to the black world. God has ordained it.

This is a must visit site for all people of African descent. I'm an engineering tech. student @ our local university and i'm tryin to get people familiar with this brother. Master Philip Emeagwali's name will be long lived.

Nuff respect to the entire family and to all our properly governed African states. Ras-pect!
